August President's Message

The month of July was indeed very busy. Our facilities were at times at maximum capacity as many homeowners from out of town came to visit in addition to family and friends of those who live here full time. The four day Fourth of July weekend showed the following facility usage figures: beach parking lot – 404; MAC Pool – 489; Pink Palace Pool – 484; and the Fitness Center 213. Those seeing the Creek Side Building for the first time were unanimous in their praise.

During the month I was contacted by the Brunswick County Health Department and asked if we would be interested in having flu shots given at our development. The BCHD would process all the insurance forms and be equipped to process credit card payments. We have tentatively reserved September 22 from 1-6 pm for this service. Further information will be coming out, in the form of an email, when this time is confirmed and members will have the opportunity to sign up through the website.

There are a couple of facility issues that need to be continually brought to your attention. The two pool's closing hours are 10PM. That means that the pools should be vacated at that time. Also, the access to the Sea Horse and Sunset Rooms in the Pink Palace are through the pool gate and to the right.

From the Library

The Jodie Hughes Library has been redesigned with a new layout, new book shelves, and new lighting. This could not have been done without the help of 18 volunteers and the hard work of Day Kreuseburg and members of the Facilities Committee.

Thank you for your continuing generous donations of hardcover fiction and biography and for paperbacks. We would like to start a collection of audio CDs so if you have any you no longer need, we would be happy to have them.

We hope you will enjoy browsing the new shelves!

Access is not through the Great Room of the building. As was stated early on, we are learning as we go along with the new building and renovated rooms and it became clear that there was confusion on how to enter the rooms.

At the July 20 Master Association Board meeting, Communications Guidelines were approved. These guidelines will give all members information on what can and cannot be communicated through the website, the Sea Trailer, the community page and member-wide emails. Please check the website in the members section under Important Documents.

Two new committees are currently being considered. They are a Health and Safety Committee and a Roads and Maintenance Committee. If you are interested, please contact me and I will send you the draft of what the committee responsibilities may be. While there is an idea of what each committee will do, those who volunteer will have the opportunity to be involved in the final description.

Finally, the process for the 2012 budget has begun and committee chairs are busy preparing their requests for next year. They have been asked to submit both operating requests and capital improvement requests. Individual MA members are also encouraged to let us know items that you would like to be considered. If they are specific to a particular committee, contact that committee chairperson. If not committee specific, send them to the Budget Committee in care of John Rothermel.–

From the Facilities Committee

I feel I must apologize for the Spa in Creek Side being down for several days so far. I hope to have it back in service by the time you read this. The heater is fully guaranteed by the Manufacturer, but these things do not always get resolved as quickly as we would like. We are also tweaking the air conditioning system that cools the Sea Horse Room and placing a thermostat in that room. This will make it much easier for those members using the Sea Horse Room to adjust the temp to their liking. We sincerely hope that by the time you read this Jennie will be once again doing all that she does for us. I can safely state that no one will be happier to have her back than me.

-- Day Kreuzburg

Knowing the Rules – A Short Tutorial

When homeowners buy into a community association, they're agreeing to abide by certain restrictions and regulations.

This doesn't always go over well. For most people, their home is not only their single most important investment, it's also their castle. In an association, the board of directors is charged with the perplexing dilemma of running the community while at the same time respecting these deeply ingrained feelings. How does the board and committee walk this line?

Enforcement takes place over three basic categories: covenants, conditions, and restrictions (CC&Rs); architectural guidelines and rules and regulations. They may seem redundant, but each category has its own area of influence.

CC&Rs are recorded documents whose provisions are inherently non-negotiable. Often crafted by the developer, they set out, in broad language, the basics of association operation and governance.

Rules and regulations are adopted by the board and are reviewed regularly and modified by the committee and the board. They are much more specific than the CC&Rs. An example might be pool-facility restrictions that set the hours of operation, require kids to be supervised, and so on.

Architectural guidelines are generally created by the developer. The architectural guidelines regulate how the community looks and is constructed, including such details as permissible landscaping, approved exterior paint colors, and location of any improvements. The level of detail varies in each community.

Together these three governance documents not only define the rules but also dictate how those rules will be enforced. Thus, everything you do-- from notification of a violation to issuing fines-- should be established within the parameters of these documents. Perhaps the most formidable job for the compliance committee will be tackling the most persistent CC&R violations, which tend to be appearance issues like landscape maintenance, unkempt properties, parking violations, etc.

Regardless of the rule, the board must enforce it fairly, objectively, and with uniformity. The committee must make every effort not to subjectively select which rules will bring to bear, or which homeowners will receive penalties. Understanding and responding to residents will do wonders for compliance. Also not to be underestimated is educational outreach. Face-to-face chats, a courtesy telephone call, community forums, newsletters, bulletin boards, and web sites can help explain the association operations, the reasoning behind your rules and regulations, and the benefits they carry.

Yes, board members have a fiduciary duty to enforce the rules and, ideally, to enhance property values, but it is the desire of this committee that this ideal be best achieved through creative and compassionate methods and above all through communication.

As always feel free to contact any member of the committee with any questions or comments.

-- Jim Leonard, Chair Rules & Regulations Committee

Adopt the Loop

I'm sure we have all heard of the Adopt the Highway Program for picking up litter on our roadways. I suggest that we Adopt the Loop.

I live on Crooked Gulley Circle and as many others in Sea Trail, I often walk, ride a bike, or walk my dogs around the scenic 3-mile loop of Crooked Gulley Circle and Club House Road. Much to my dismay, I have seen an increasing amount of litter tossed around this route. Some of it has been there for weeks! Finally I said to myself, it is apparent that we don't have a "service" to pick this stuff up, so why don't you do it. Duh!?

So in one of my bike journeys, I spent a couple of minutes picking up this hoard. It consisted of various empty beer cans, bottles, diapers (very used), fast food (also used), and also an assortment of plastic bags.

I could make a plea that we don't litter, but I am sure that the people who are reading this are NOT the ones littering. But how about if we be the ones to pick it up. Next time you walk, run, or bike around the loop, take a plastic bag with you. If you see some litter, take 10 seconds to pick it up. How many times have you remarked about the same beer can off to the side of the road? Well, let's just pick it up and be done with it!

Adopt the loop and keep our community picked up!

-- George Baumgartner

Garden Club News

Our 225th meeting of the Sea Trail Garden Club met on July 12th. We were joined by Gareth Evans who is the Executive Director at the Bellamy Mansion Museum in Wilmington. Gareth gave a colorful and informative history of this historic home.

Our annual Fashion Show on September 13th is getting closer (see the flyer on page 9). Dorrie McGurn now has flyers for the show which we will put out into the community. This year's theme is “Living in Style Morning, Noon and Night” and with help from Lori's Golf Shoppe, J Huffman, and Island Breeze, we will be in Style! We still need volunteers for setting up the Charity Auction the day before and we have purses available to use for theme baskets. Call Jerri Esposito or Carol Bates.

The program for August will feature our new Executive Director of the Coastal Carolina Museum and the reading of the scholarship recipients' essays. School supplies will be collected.

Happy Gardening!

Sea Trail Prayer Support Circle

Every day we pray for our Lord's guidance in our lives. Do we see and recognize angels (sometimes unaware) among us? How do we explain the things that occur when we pray for help? Here at Sea Trail Plantation, we have so many friends and neighbors who answer the call for help when it is needed - could they be angels? They may not think of themselves in that way, but they feel the need to help and respond.

When our Lord asks 'whom shall I send?' Will we answer, 'here I am, send me'. We give thanks for all our angels- those seen and those unseen! Thanks be to God!

God's Peace,

Sea Tails: Baby Blue Birds

By Anita August. Photography by Leon August.

We hadn't done too well with our bluebirds lately. The almost-ready-to-fledge baby that had been in the front yard box had been attacked and killed by English Sparrows. Next, the blue birds hatched eggs and four babies were the result. A couple days later, a snake scaled the bird house post, and ate the babies. Next, we installed snake guards on both blue bird houses. "Mr and Mrs Bluebird" valiantly built a new nest, in the back yard box, and hatched four more babies.

Then, early one morning, I noticed that the trees overhead were filled with every type of bird that we ever fed in our yard. And they were all raising a real ruckus. Looking around for the source of the "trouble," I noticed Mr & Mrs Bluebird fluttering around the opening to their box, though not going in. They just fluttered around the door. I knew that the trouble was inside. I opened the door. There was a snake inside, all coiled up. I couldn't see the baby birds. I ran to get a rake and called for Leon to help me.

Golf » Heard Round the Bag Drop

Whew! July has been a hot month for golf so far. With temperatures reaching 100, the annual Rally for a Cure was held on July 13th. Nevertheless, a full field of golfers turned out to play and the tournament was a huge success. Over $8000 was raised to help in the fight against breast cancer. Because of the heat, it was decided that everyone would play from the new forward teal tees, called the Founders' Tees. It was a great chance to try them out and to get a different look at the golf course. Thanks again to Larry Barr and his crew for making the tee markers and getting them installed.

Our next tournament, the Memorial Tournament, will take place on July 27th. Nine-hole players and eighteen-hole players will team up to honor former players at Sea Trail. The format is to make your own team made up of members from both leagues. It's a fun tournament and a chance to play with different players. A social at the Pink Palace will take place directly after the conclusion of the tournament.

STLGA golf shirt sales have been booming. Shirts of all colors of the rainbow are being spotted all over the golf courses. The unique logo shows up well. If you haven't bought any yet, there's still time. Contact Jo Ann Barton to place your order or go to stlgablogspot.com to get an order form.

August promises to be another busy month for STLGA. Besides the regular weekly tournament, our annual Club Championship will take place on Aug. 22, 24, and 25. Play will be in flights. A social gathering will take place following play on the 25th. Sign up and join the fun – you could be having your very own parking place at Jones-Byrd.

Thanks to Gloria Wimmer and Jan Bohlinger for doing the July pairings. The pairings in August will be done by Elaine Poston and Mary Cundiff.

Enjoy our wonderful golf courses the rest of the summer but be sure to stay hydrated and healthy.

No Solicitation

There is a No Solicitation ordinance in the town of Sunset Beach and thus also at Sea Trail. The police have asked to be called at the time the solicitation is taking place.

Sea Trail Residents Publish 2nd Book

Anne Giordano and Marie Munn have collaborated on their second children's book. The book is titled "Scotty, the Hero Dog". The story, written by Anne, is a tale based on an incident in her childhood in which her dog saves their house from burning down by barking and rousing her father from his nap. Marie Munn has created beautifully animated illustrations using her signature style of vibrant water colors. Their first book "Spencer, the Magic Rabbit" was very successful and they are hoping that this one will surpass the last.

"This book is aimed at children in grades K – 3," Anne explains, "and it is meant to portray a story that happened many years ago". Anne pulled out pictures of herself as a five year old, her dog, and pictures of an old wood stove that was in her childhood home. Using these pictures, Marie was able to accurately illustrate the story. "I really enjoyed the challenge of animating the characters and depicting scenes from the past," Marie added. "It was a new experience for me."

Anne took "Spencer, the Magic Rabbit" to several area elementary schools and read the book and showed the illustrations to the students. She plans on doing the same with this book, although this time, to a younger audience. Worksheet pages have been added to "Scotty, the Hero Dog" to enhance the comprehension skills of her younger readers. "I think that parents will enjoy using the worksheets with their children," Anne added. Anne also plans to bring a doll that looks like the girl in the story and a dog that looks like Scotty when she visits the classrooms.

The book is a soft cover, large print with many pictures that will appeal to this age level. A short biography of both the author and illustrator are included. The format and packaging was done by Peggy Grich and the cover design was done by Jim Grich. Anne is also grateful to Jack DeGroot for all her help with getting her book published.

"Scotty, the Hero Dog" can be purchased from Anne or Marie but it is also available at Pelican Book Store in Sunset Beach and the Sunset River Marketplace in Calabash. It is also available from Amazon.com. Anne has scheduled two book talks. One will be at the Sunset River Marketplace and the other at "Coffee and Chocolate" in Pawley's Island. Anne and Marie will also have their books for sale at the Fashion Show and the Make It- Bake It Auction.
